

A Governor came to watch the Sports morning and was pleased to see the school's Christian values in action with children showing teamwork and perseverance.

The annual Sports morning is a mammoth organisational feat and involves everyone working together to get it organised and smoothly running.

Governor Emma Rees commented on the positive attitude of all the children involved:

“At one point there was a boy in one class behind everyone else on an obstacle course. The whole of the rest of the class began cheering him on which was so nice to see.”

Governor Emma Rees enjoyed Sports Day but was especially pleased to see the values shown by all the children and the way they looked after each other.
